We respectfully acknowledge the Yorta Yorta people as the Traditional Owners of the Country on which we gather, whose stories are the oldest and deepest of this place.

We pay our respects to Yorta Yorta Elders past and present and to the stories carried in language, song, ceremony and Country itself.

STORIES OUR PURPOSE

The Festival of Stories was born from a simple idea: to celebrate storytelling in all its forms.

We are a festival of stories, and we exist for the storytellers who share them. It's written into our mark and sits at the heart of our identity and values.

From the written and spoken word to performance, film, music and art, the festival brings together visiting and local voices, emerging and established storytellers, and audiences of all ages.

Our stories and the stories of others. Because everyone has a story, and the stories we encounter, in whatever form, inspire us, move us, teach us and open our eyes to new perspectives.

When we share stories, we connect. We see ourselves in each other, understand lives different from our own, and discover what we have in common.

Stories connect us to place and give us a sense of belonging, reminding us where we come from and who we are together.

Now, more than ever, it's important to celebrate this deeply human gift.

Thank you for being part of this story.

WELCOME

Welcome to the Festival of Stories

Here in Echuca Moama, on Yorta Yorta Country, we are shaped by our river landscape – where three rivers meet, and where for thousands of years people have gathered to share knowledge, traditions and stories. These stories are as old as the rivers themselves, and an ever-present current in this place we call home.

The enduring spirit of storytelling continues today and will be deeply present across our first-ever three-day Festival of Stories.

The program brings together our first storytellers, the Yorta Yorta people, with local and visiting creatives: authors, writers, journalists, musicians, artists, workshop hosts, film and television producers, farmers, food producers and winemakers. There is something for everyone, and everyone is welcome at the Festival of Stories.

We ask you all to come with an open heart and an open mind, put your phone away and relish many moments of genuine connection through the ancient art of storytelling.

As a group of local storytellers working across books, art, journalism, writing, events and community, our Festival of Stories volunteer committee is passionate about providing a platform for visiting and local storytellers to celebrate the arts, culture and creativity.

The committee is made up of Leonie Canham, Jenny Turner, Troy O'Brien, Nina O'Brien, Suzi Shearer and me, ably supported by our Project Manager, Jessica Waters. Together, we have worked tirelessly since late 2025 to create all that is on offer across the weekend.

We would like to thank those who believed in us from the beginning. Thank you to our sponsors for their generosity and their trust in us to deliver something special, even before we had runs on the board. Thank you to all the local businesses, large and small, who have supported us in many and varied ways. And thank you to our Friends of the Festival of Stories for helping create and sustain an event our whole community can feel connected to and proud of.

Finally, thank you for being here, for believing in what we are creating, and for being part of the story.

ECHUCA MOAMA ON YORTA YORTA COUNTRY IS THE PLACE OF BIG WATER

Dhungala, the Murray River, is life-giving – a force that has drawn people together to share culture, knowledge and resources for thousands of years.

Echuca is named for where three rivers converge to become one. An ancient meeting place whose geography and people have always been shaped by water and connection.

This is a landscape rich in story and significant in the shaping of the nation. At the height of the river trade, Echuca was the third largest port in the country, behind only Sydney and Melbourne. The river was the highway of inland Australia. The stories of this place – of Country, of trade and industry, of farming families and settler communities – are woven into the story of Australia itself.

The river still connects. It carries generations of shared history, unites two states and links city lives to country ones. It enables work, culture and play. It binds communities across distance and difference.

Today, Echuca Moama is one of regional Australia's most visited destinations – a thriving tourism and agricultural community with a deep sense of connection and identity shaped around the river.

For the Festival of Stories, this place is more than a backdrop. Every venue carries its own character and story – from the riverbank to the historic Wharf, paddle steamers and heritage buildings of the Port of Echuca, to spaces on both sides of the Murray.

Dhungala, the big waters of the majestic Murray River, inspires us, carries our stories and draws people together. It always has.

Is there a Festival Office, information point or hub?

Yes. Festival HQ is a marquee on the green space at the Port of Echuca. It's your central point for enquiries, merchandise, drinking water, lost property and first aid.

It's staffed from 5pm on Friday, and from 8am on Saturday and Sunday. You'll also find visitor information at the Port of Echuca Discovery Centre.

How do I buy tickets?

Tickets can only be purchased online. Visit festivalofstories.com.au or scan the QR codes on our posters around town or in this program. QR codes will be available at the door of many sessions so you can purchase tickets on the go or at the door.

Is there a booking fee or concession pricing?

A booking fee is included in the ticket price through Oztix.

There is no concession pricing this year. As this is our first festival, we've kept things simple with one ticket price for everyone. We've worked hard to keep prices accessible, and there are plenty of free events across the weekend too.

Can I get a refund or transfer my ticket?

Tickets are non-refundable, except where an event is cancelled. If you can't attend, you're welcome to pass your ticket on to a friend.

What if an event is sold out?

If a session sells out, you can join the waitlist through Oztix. If tickets become available, Oztix will let you know. Popular sessions may sell out, so we recommend booking ahead.

Where can I see Dan Sultan?

Fri 7pm Opening Night (SOLD OUT); Sat 10am Storytelling Through Song panel; Sat 11.15am songwriting workshop (special guest); Sat 8.30pm Songs & Stories.

Where do I park?

There is parking adjacent to the Wharf and Port precinct and ample street parking along Hare and High streets.

Are venues wheelchair accessible?

Yes. Most festival venues are accessible, though some have limitations: Thelma's Upstairs (American Hotel) is accessible by lift. The Wharf has ramp access, though the surface is wooden and a little bumpy.

FAQs

What happens if it rains?	The festival goes ahead, rain or shine. A large marquee on the Wharf will host Opening Night, Comedy Club, After Dark and Yoga in the Port if the weather turns wet. There is limited shelter at the Aquatic Reserve and on the paddlesteamer.
Do I need to bring anything?	For most sessions, just bring yourself. A few tips: Evening events on the Wharf: heaters will be provided, but bring a jumper as it can get chilly by the river at night. Yoga in the Port: all gear is provided, but you're welcome to bring your own mat. Nature journaling: all materials are supplied.
Can I bring children?	The Port of Echuca is child and pet friendly. There is age guidance at several of our events and venues, including the Comedy Club and After Dark events, and in bars and licensed venues. All Wharf venue sessions are for over 18 years unless accompanied by an adult, as well as our Songwriting Panel and Workshop at American Hotel.
Where can I find out more about What's On in Echuca Moama?	For ideas on what to see, do, eat and explore while you're in town, search visitechucamoama.com.au or drop into the Port of Echuca Discovery Centre.

Stars, Night Herons and the Politics of Envy

The backdrop to the Festival of Stories Mainstage on the Echuca Wharf is Stars, Night Herons and the Politics of Envy by local artist Wendy McDonald. Wendy lives and works on Barapa Barapa Country on the Murray River floodplains, where her family farm takes in the Thule Lagoon wetlands. She is both a physical and artistic custodian of this landscape, caring for the wetlands and capturing them on canvas. Her work brings the river country that shapes our stories to the heart of the festival stage.

FESTIVAL OF STORIES FOUNDING FRIENDS PROGRAM

Your support helps shape the festival, bring outstanding artists and storytellers to our region, and create lasting cultural, community and tourism benefits for Echuca Moama.

Across regional Australia, the event landscape is changing. Many much-loved community events have become harder to sustain, while others are being scaled back, outsourced or are disappearing altogether. Our region has felt this too.

But in Echuca Moama, we see this moment as an opportunity. An opportunity to create something new. Something lasting. Something locally-led. Something our community can proudly call its own.

Supporter memberships start at $45 and help fund this community-owned festival.
